

AMERICA A MOST HOPEFUL COUNTRY

Estimate of an Englishman
After Viewing It.

PERIL IN CENTERED WEALTH

Declares Churches Are Not in Speaking
Distance of the People—Immigration Problem.

Frankly acknowledging that he stood appalled in contemplating some of the social and religious problems in America, yet declaring that despite these America was the most hopeful country in the world, the Rev. William J. Dawson, of London, English preacher and evangelist, on the eve of his return to Europe after his long preaching trip in the United States, discussed his impressions of this country and its great social questions.

Mr. Dawson had come to Washington to make his last public address in the country and to pay his respects to President Roosevelt. After his call at the White House he was enthusiastic about Mr. Roosevelt.

"You have a great President, a very great President," he declared. "He is earnest, sincere and courageous."

Danger in Wealth.

"Your enormous aggregations of selfish wealth," said Mr. Dawson, "strike me as presenting the most serious set of problems before the nation. True, we have the same problem in Britain and the continental countries, but nowhere is it so great as here."

"Your immigration problem must become more serious as time passes. This mass of a million a year of people coming here must be assimilated, and it must be Christianized and educated. The public school system may be expected to accomplish much in this direction. I have been a good deal in the lower East Side of New York city, and though it is the great slum of America, yet it is not comparable to the slums of London. In New York, in America, the field of opportunity is yet so wide and rich that there is room for all who come willing to work. There is work, even in New York, for all. In London there is not."

"In twelve winters of my work in London there was not one which did not bring us face to face with a great problem of unemployed, honestly unemployed, people for whom there was no work, however much they may have wanted it, and however willing they may have been to do it. Drunkenness, of men and women alike, is the horror of the London slums; you do not have it, speaking comparatively, in New York. The lowest class of women, the London slums are unspeakably degraded. American cities know almost nothing of a corresponding class."

Churches Are Apathetic.

"Your churches are not doing their share. They have grown away from the working men, the masses. They seem to be proprietary establishments of the wealthy, offering nothing to the working people and attracting none of them. They have no grip on the people, no capacity for handling the question that confronts them. I said to one gentleman, 'Why should not your theological seminaries teach students to speak Russian, Polish, and Italian? That is what is needed to reach these masses of immigrants. But no; the theological student is not in speaking distance of the people he should reach.'

"The great religious revival of the past year in Wales, I learn, is still in progress, and it is a real, basic, ethical revival. It is making serious work of a new plan. It has emptied the jails and almshouses; it has closed the saloons; it has brought 50,000 people to conversion and to a new life."

Signs of Revival.

"There are signs of the beginning of a great revival of religious interest in this country; I cannot doubt it after my experience here for months past, and in view of what people have told me."

Dr. Dawson, who for twelve years was head of Highbury Quadrant House, of Highbury, London, is now connected with that establishment, but is devoting himself entirely to revival work. He is returning to England for a few weeks, and will return to America in September to resume his work. He will be in the campaign in Buffalo, and will go to several interior cities of New York. He has also agreed to go to Atlanta for a season, and anticipates an opportunity to study the race problem.

ME TOO

The "Tail Enders" That Follow Genuine Articles.

It is sometimes interesting to watch the curious imitations make to get the public to buy imitations of genuine goods.

Every now and then some one will think there is something splendid in opening to fix up something like Postum Coffee and advertise the same way and take some of the business.

An imitator is naturally ignorant of food values and how to skillfully make a cereal coffee on scientific lines.

Some men first think of preparing something that looks and tastes like the original with no knowledge of how the grains should be treated to prepare them so that the starchy part is transformed properly and the valuable nourishing elements made digestible.

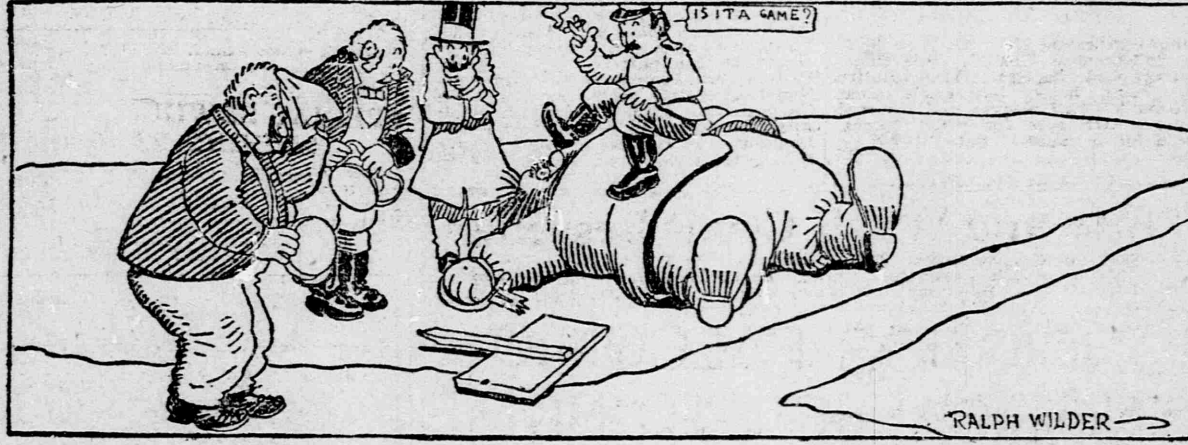

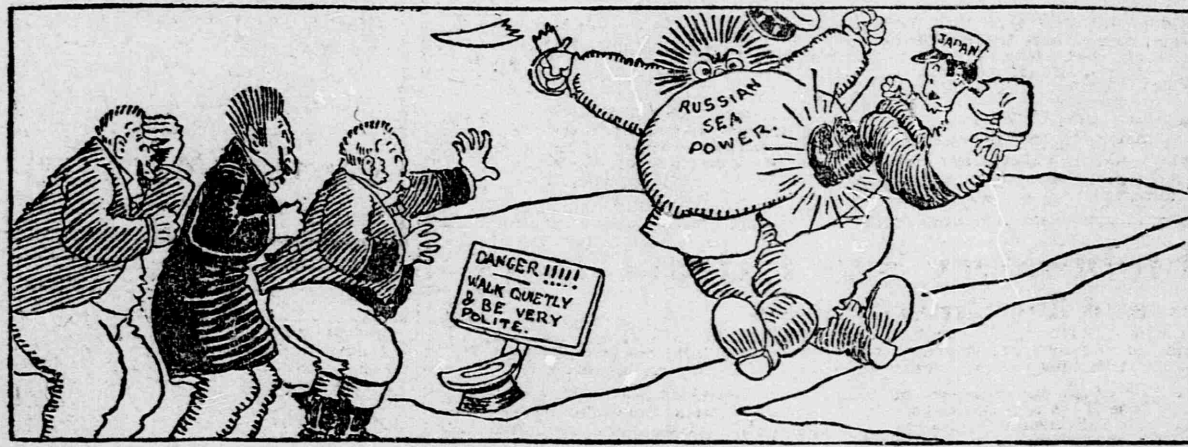

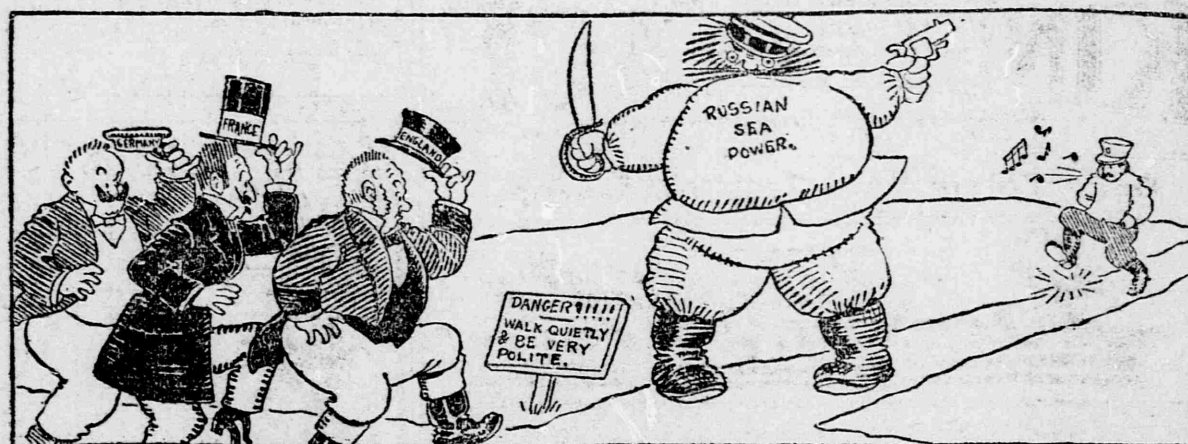

Such imitations may be foisted on the public for a short time, but the people are critical and soon detect the attempt, then the imitators go out of business.

Something like four hundred of these little factories have been started in various parts of this country in the past few years, and it is a sad thing to see a new one has come to life and evidently hopes to insert itself in public favor by copying the style of the Postum advertising in the papers.

This is a free country and every man who makes an honest product and honestly labels it has reason for some recognition, but the public has the right to know the facts.

Postum is the one original and genuine Cereal Coffee, made skillfully and for a definite purpose. It has stood through all the wars of the imitators, has won the approval of the physicians and the people.

OLDEST INHABITANTS PLAN FOR JULY FOURTH

The regular meeting of the Oldest Inhabitants' Association was held last evening at the rooms of the association, in the Corcoran building.

The meeting was called to order by the secretary, E. W. Reiss, who asked Allison Naylor, the vice president, to take the chair in the absence of the president, S. Thomas Brown.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the death of Walter E. Johnson, one of the thirteen vice presidents, and William J. Miller, were announced by the secretary.

Mr. Reiss, the secretary, requested that members of the family notify him of the death of any member of the association so arrangements can be made for the funeral. He said that several of the members of the association had died without his knowing about it.

William R. Smith was elected vice president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Johnson. The entertainment committee, of which Fred G. Calvert is chairman, reported that the feature of the entertainment program was being left to Mr. Ragan, a member of the committee, who promised that what he had in view would be an agreeable surprise to the association.

He refused to disclose the nature of what he intends to spring on the Fourth of July.

A meeting of the entertainment committee will be held at the association rooms on Monday night, at 7:30 o'clock, to complete the program.

William R. Smith, who has been in charge of the Bohemian Garden, extended the invitation of Crosby S. Noyes, to have the association at his farm at Alton, Md., on the Fourth of July. The invitation was accepted with thanks.

It was agreed to meet at the Riggs House, at 10 o'clock, on the morning of July 4, and all members go out to the farm at Alton, Md., on the Fourth of July. The invitation was accepted with thanks.

Mr. Standing will play the part of Dr. Elmdorf, originally played by Mr. Drew.

Open Air Performances—The Sylvan Players.

In a grove of noble oaks on Connecticut avenue at the intersection of Woodley avenue three of Shakespeare's most amusing comedies will be enacted by the Sylvan Players in six performances, beginning on Monday, for the benefit of the Junior Republic. The spot selected is ideal for the purpose and it will take but a slight flight of imagination to imagine oneself in the forest of Arden with Shakespeare's characters walking under the oaks.

The entrance to the ground will be where Woodley avenue diverges into Connecticut avenue. A large field fronts the gentle slope which leads to the grove, and in this ground will be placed to take care of automobiles and carriages. The chairs will be comfortable and everyone will be able to see the actors.

In case, however, that the weather should prove inclement the entire performance, whether during the afternoon or evening, will be transferred to the Lafayette Opera House, where arrangements have also been made to give the performance the rural aspect necessary.

The comedies to be produced are "As You Like It" on Monday afternoon, on Tuesday night, "Twelfth Night" and "The Merchant of Venice" on Wednesday evening and "The Taming of the Shrew" on Thursday evening. A magnificent production of "Twelfth Night" will be given.

SLY DIGS AT ASH MAN ARE NOW FASHIONABLE

The District Commissioners are accustomed to hear abuse, blame, and sarcasm heaped upon their heads because of the shortcomings of the ash man. A dozen shafts of wit, some blunt, some pointed, are sent them every week.

Today's most rotatable contribution to the humor inspiria by the ash man is as follows: "Gentlemen, Will you kindly notify me, somewhat in advance, if you please, so that I can be on the lookout, of the date when you, ash gentlemen, will make his annual visitation to this section of town."

"We have been here since May 10 and have the first time to see or hear him."

FIVE HUNDRED AGENTS DRUM UP EMIGRANTS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 8.—At a meeting of the emigration committee of parliament Premier Tisza said it was calamitous to assert that the government connived at official agents decoying emigrants, so as to supply shipping companies with a certain number of steerage passengers.

The German lines, he added, maintained 50 of these agents, who were principally responsible for the emigration of 3,000 persons without passports in 1904, during the fight between the German lines and the Cunard line.

WAR WILL PROMOTE WARSHIP BUILDING

Japan's Successes May Further
President's Program.

NIPPON A GREAT SEA POWER

In Sight of Second Place Among the Navies of the World—What Vessels She Will Own.

President Roosevelt's ambition for an extensive naval construction program is expected to be furthered by the realization, in naval and diplomatic circles, of the new rank which Japan will gain among sea powers as a result of the war.

A computation of the naval power of Japan, and comparison with the fleets of other states, suggests that Japan is in sight of second place. She had five battleships before the battle of the Japan sea. Now she has seven, having captured the Nicholas I and the Orei.

Vessels Japan May Raise.

In addition, she is expected to raise, repair, and use three battleships and one or two big cruisers, sunk at Port Arthur. She has two immense battleships building in England.

Two coast defense vessels, which, in Japanese hands, would be no mean factor in a naval array, were also taken in the battle of the Japan sea. A long list of destroyers, gunboats, and smaller cruisers were in Port Arthur's harbor when the place was captured.

What use the Japanese can make of these is not announced. No effort to ascertain what part Japan can use of the naval strength, lost by Russia with her great fortress, has met any success.

Then there are the interned vessels.

scattered all along the Pacific coast of Asia. These include the cruisers Oleg, Aurora and Jemchug, at Manila; the Askold and the Rion, at Shanghai; four transports, two colliers, a mining vessel and a distilling ship, also at Shanghai; the Lena, at San Francisco; the battleship Cesarevitch, at Kiao-Chau, and others, both destroyers and larger vessels.

May Acquire Interned Ships.

It is universally expected, though there is no precedent for action on interned vessels, that these will be turned over to Japan under the peace terms. Their value may be deducted from the indemnity, but in any case Japan will get them.

All this array, manned by the veteran and seasoned sailors of Nippon, will make a power to give pause to any opponent in the world. Add to all this the fact that Japan will have ambition and a big indemnity with which to carry out any building program she may deem necessary, and it becomes apparent that an overhauling of naval programs may be deemed desirable in many quarters.

Want advertisements for the Evening and Sunday Times will be received at regular office rates at Arthur H. F. Lucassen's Pharmacy, Brookland, D. C.

A WISCONSIN PIONEER

Recommends Pe-ru-na as Being
"Worth Its Weight in Gold."

Pe-ru-na is a Catarrhal Tonic
Especially Adapted to the Declining Powers of Old Age.

Healthy and hearty old age means simply healthy organs and healthy functions retained beyond the usual time. As a rule, at the age of 60 or 70 years, the functions begin to wane and the various organs to lose their natural power.

This need not occur. At least not in all cases. Many a man and woman have retained their health and vigor much later in life.

We have on file several letters from octogenarians who have found Peru-na of priceless value to them as their declining years advanced.

Had Catarrh Several Winters—Two Bottles of Pe-ru-na Cured Him.

Mr. Carl Sierks, Dale, Ill., writes: "For several winters I had catarrh and coughed continually, and as I was eighty-three years old, I thought my days were numbered. I used different remedies without success. Then I came in possession of your calendar and read the testimonials of many who had been cured by Peru-na."

"I purchased two bottles of Peru-na and took it according to directions. I was much surprised, for on the third day I was better, and in a week I was permanently cured."

"I hesitated to say I was cured, as I wanted to test it, but winter was by, likewise summer and part of this winter, and I am still healthy."

"I do not hesitate to recommend Peru-na to all who suffer with catarrh."

Has Reached Four Score Years and Weighs 156 Pounds.

Mr. Levi Keeg, Rainsburg, Pa., writes: "Your medicine has done me so much good I intend to keep it on hand all the time."

"I had all the symptoms of systemic catarrh. My eyes were red and inflamed, my throat, stomach, and bowels troubled me, was nervous, and had nervous headaches. I am now entirely cured by Peru-na."

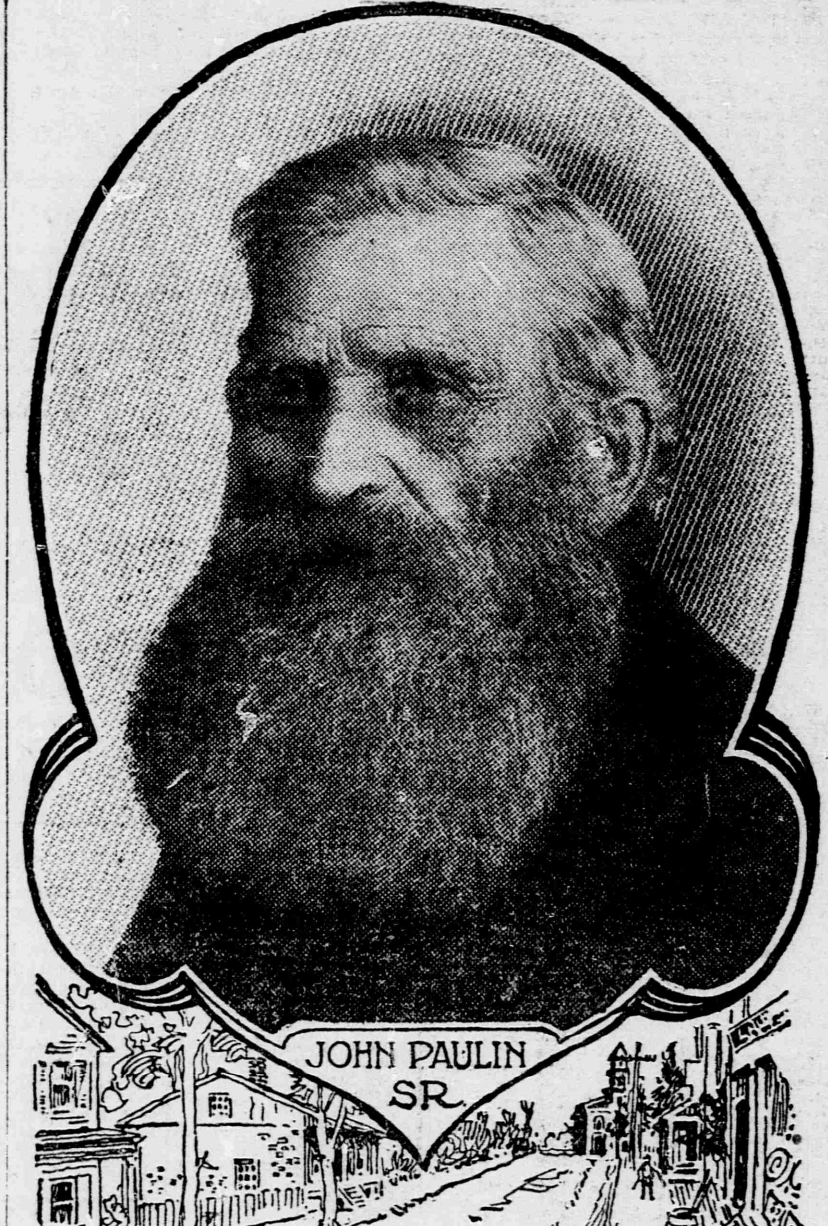

"I am eighty years old, and I never weighed more than 140, but now I weigh 156 pounds."

A Man of 91 Years Finds Pe-ru-na Valuable.

Mr. Ameriah Hendrickson, 86 East Gay St., Columbus, Ohio, writes the following interesting letter to The Peru-na Drug Mfg. Co.:

"I shall be ninety-one years old my next birthday. My eyesight is good and I have never worn glasses."

"I have, until within the last ten years, enjoyed very good health. My

ESTEEMED PIONEER OWES HEALTH TO PE-RU-NA.

Mr. John Paulin, sr., a pioneer of Port Washington, Wis., is held in high esteem by the residents of that place. He is one of the oldest citizens. In a recent letter he says:

"I have used Peru-na with good results for coughs and colds which troubled me every fall and winter. It has also cured my catarrh, which became worse when affected with but a slight cold. I am recommending Peru-na because it is worth its weight in gold."

Illness is nothing special, but something resembling the weakness of old age. Peru-na a great deal of use to me.

It strengthens my stomach and digestion and I have never found any medicine as valuable as Peru-na.
